Emma was so excited she could not sleep. Tomorrow she was going to the zoo with her best friend. She awoke to a bright flash of light and a loud boom. “Oh no,” she thought, “it can’t rain today.” She called downstairs to her mom, “Do I get to go to the zoo?” Her mother answered, “Not today, the storms are bad!” Emma stomped her feet and began to cry. Her mother said, “Come here and help me in the kitchen.” Emma went into the kitchen and saw her mother stirring a big bowl. “What are you making?” Emma asked. “Animal cookies.” She said. Emma thought, “This rainy day won’t be so bad after all.”
